

Research Request Service Report

Date requested	01/01/18
Topic	What is the effect of vitamins and minerals in the onset and rate of progression of dementia?
Requestor	A User
Librarian	J Bloggs
Resources searched	Performed Searches in: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Medline</li> <li>• Embase</li> <li>• Google Scholar</li> <li>• Web of Science</li> <li>•</li> </ul>
Search strategy	(alzheimers OR dementia) AND ((((((((((((((vitamins) OR Minerals) OR Vitamin A) OR vitamin B 12) OR Vitamin D) OR thiamine) OR riboflavin) OR niacin) OR Folic Acid) OR Cyanocobalamin) OR multivitamin) OR calcium) OR zinc) OR sodium) OR potassium) OR phosphorus OR dietary supplements)
Date supplied	04/01/18

Abstracts

RefWorks URL:

DISCLAIMER: it is not the intention of the Research Request service to provide authoritative medical advice or practice guidelines, but to make available information that may assist in understanding clinical questions and/or contribute to evidence-based patient care. When using the Research Request Service please remember that: search results provided may not constitute all that is available on a given subject or question; the inclusion of particular search results does not imply approval or recommendation by the library service; the library service does not provide medical advice or interpretation of information.